We had the pleasure of working with Antham Construction and the Buccella family to complete the demolition and interior fit-up of our family medicine clinic. From the first time we met the team and throughout the whole process, they were upfront, frank, reasonable, and reliable. One of the most impressive aspects was that the final cost of the project was only 1% over the original estimate, despite a number of changes that were required due to unexpected site conditions and third-party demands.

The professionalism of the whole team is also noteworthy. Emails, texts, and phone calls were always promptly returned and while subcontractors sometimes caused unexpected hiccups and delays, we, as the client, were always kept apprised of the reason and the revised schedule. Post-construction deficiencies were also very quickly addressed and resolved.

As Magenta Health plans to expand and to build additional clinics, we look forward to having an opportunity to work with Antham Construction again soon.
